Acknowledgments

Farmers' Legal Action Group, Inc. (FLAG) is proud to be publishing the Farmers' Guide to Wind Energy, a ground-breaking, comprehensive legal resource for family farmers nationwide. This book represents a genuine collaborative effort, as is true of all FLAG publications.

The guide was developed by FLAG attorney and Skadden Fellow Jessica Shoemaker. In addition to writing several chapters of the book, Jessica defined its scope, coordinated the efforts of contributors and expert reviewers, and skillfully oversaw the project from beginning to end. Christy Anderson Brekken, an attorney on contract with FLAG to assist with this project, provided invaluable research assistance and drafted several chapters of the book. FLAG attorney Karen Krub drafted sections of several chapters and comprehensively edited the guide. Rita Gorman Capes carefully copyedited and formatted the manuscript. Debby Juarez designed the cover and provided publishing support. FLAG law clerks Sarah Johnson Phillips, Peter Navis, Samantha Bohrman, Stephanie Kerbage, Jacob Fischer, Justin Kwong, and Luke Grundman made significant research, editorial, and cite-checking contributions throughout the guide. Each of these FLAG staff members joined their efforts to produce a final product worthy of the family farmers for whom it is written. To each of them, we say thank you.

The guide was enriched greatly by the pro bono assistance of several individuals. Raymond W. Faricy III of Lindquist & Vennum offered the benefit of his considerable experience by reviewing and contributing to sections on commercial-scale wind development. Former FLAG staff attorney David Moeller, now an attorney at Minnesota Power, provided helpful feedback on interconnection and the regulation of electric utilities. Ingrid E. Bjorklund, Lindquist & Vennum, and Jeffrey C. Paulson, Jeffrey C. Paulson & Associates, also provided valuable guidance. In addition, the input of Thom Petersen, Minnesota Farmers Union; Michael Noble, Fresh Energy; Lisa Daniels, Windustry; and Bruce Poole, a former engineer with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and a now wind energy consultant, all contributed greatly to the final product.

FLAG is deeply grateful to those who provided financial support for our work in this new and developing area of law. Their faith in us and their generous contributions to FLAG made this book possible. They include:

- The Bush Foundation
- The Skadden Fellowship Foundation
- National Farmers Union Service Association
- Minnesota Justice Foundation

Finally, we owe our largest debt of gratitude to all the farmers and farm advocates whose determination, intelligence, and courage have guided our work for the past twenty-one years.

Wind energy holds the promise of providing our nation with clean and renewable energy, and farmers and ranchers and their rural communities with a revitalizing revenue stream. It is our hope that this guide will help farmers and ranchers successfully realize the wind's full potential.
